What you said!...Follow-up Survey Results

Thanks to those 120+ people who filled out our follow-up survey to just tease out a little more about modes of communication and rationale for considering the library a high priority for funding...

Soooo, it seems that despite receiving lots of emails, email remains the preferred way in which people want to hear about upcoming events and opportunities to be involved (see below). This was closely followed by the S'Mart Community newsletter, with the trend reversed for the next preferred option. There was some support for facebook or phone apps...although we did receive more negative views about the use of facebook than positive, with some of those positive responses being people keen to help run a facebook page – thanks for your offer!

In terms of finding out more general information about the S'Mart Community, the School website was most preferred, followed by facebook and then the S'Mart Community website (see below)... So, how many people know there already IS information on the School website? Our challenge is that this information is restricted to one page, and there was only so much information you can capture on one page! You can find out a whole lot more on the S'Mart Community website!

Finally, more than 70% of you simply thought the library was a valuable resource and should be adequately funded rather than seeing that specific aspects of the library needed to be funded.
